Arrest Demonstrators At Raytheon Plant

A group of demonstrators were arrested for trespassing on the grounds of the Raytheon plant in West Andover and faced arraignment in Lawrence District Court Wednesday afternoon after the TOWNSMAN went to press at 1:30 p.m.

A group of 15 had been at the plant during the morning, stopping cars on their way into work, giving out anti-Vietnam literature.

The group was believed to be associated with the Haverhill War Tax Resistance Peace Action group. That was the signature on some of the printed documents given out to Raytheon employees. The eight facing court action Wednesday afternoon were:

John A. Leek, 30, 40 Newtonville Ave., Newton, John H. Handren, Jr., 18, 36 Woodland Road, Georgetown, Francis E. Adrance, 24, 252 Stratford St., Roxbury, Patrick D. Quirke, 21, Baldpate Road, Georgetown, Paul E. Shannon, 25, 72 Gramplan Way, Dorchester, Richard J. Christopher, 20, 16 Vine St., Haverhill, Helen C. Broeg, 47, 50 George St., Arlington, Meredith L. Harris, 22, 88 Temple St., Haverhill.

Andover police said that about an additional seven of the demonstrators had disappeared before their arrival.

Raytheon officials called Andover police.

It Wasn't The First Time

Twice within ten days, vandals have shattered the living room picture window of Gerald Silverman, high school assistant principal and chief disciplinary officer.

A heavy boulder almost a foot in diameter was thrown, evidently from close range, through the living room window shortly after midnight Friday. Another large rock was hurled against the side door, facing the street, smashing in the screen.

This incident follows the breaking of the same picture window on the night before Halloween, when a pumpkin was thrown through it, scattering glass across the Silverman living room floor.

The next night, Halloween, Silverman reports two cars pulled up and parked just beyond the house. Someone got out but rushed back into the car when the administrator came out to investigate. This time Silverman was able to note the license number.

Two cars were also heard at Friday night's glass shattering incident. The assistant principal notes that the rocks are too large to have been found around the place, and too heavy to have been thrown from a distance.

"Someone had to bring them in deliberately to do it, and someone had to come right up to the window and just shove that big rock through. It landed on the sofa just underneath the window, and the glass fell straight down."

Previous incidents include a rock thrown at the door last New Year's Eve, and cars driven up over the lawn on several occasions. Andover Police Officers Richard Aurnais and Joseph Hastings are investigating the window-smashings.

Both Silverman and High School Principal Philip Wormwood see the incidents as a vindictive attempt by a very small minority of young people to intimidate the high school discipline officer, but Silverman says it is not going to make any difference.

School Committee Takes Positive Stand

Andover's incensed school administration and school committee served notice to the community and its students at an emergency session Monday night that its policy will no longer be to try to keep in school the small number of students whose behavior shows a complete lack of respect for the rights and property of the community and of individual persons.

Month-long suspensions, expulsion and legal prosecution, when indicated, will be among the firm measures adopted more frequently, Supt. Seffert indicated suspended students will have to show cause for their being reinstated in school.

The emergency session was called to deal with the clandestine harassment of Gerald Silverman, the high school's asstant principal in charge of discipline, at his home. Events culminated this past weekend in

Rebuild Petition Denied

The Zoning Board of Appeals has denied a request for a special permit sought by Ninety-Nine, North Inc., to rebuild the restaurant and lounge, ruined by fire earlier this year.

The petitioners had requested the permission and variance at a hearing held by the board in September.

The building, which was destroyed by fire, is located in a non-conforming use area.

Atty. Carmine DiAdamo, counsel for the petitioners, challenged the right of the board to hear the case, or to take action, in view of the building inspector, WINTER ARRIVES. Winter made an early entrance into Andover Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, creating artistic scenery like this in the Johnson Acres area, but creating some slippery conditions throughout the area. Department of Public Works crews received an early workout on the winter storm equipment, sanding and salting the roadways. The general area was spared winter's wrath which attacked other areas of the western and northern portions of New England.

State Funds Approved For Police

Gov. Francis W. Sargent has announced the approval of a request from the town of Andover for $2,580 of funding assistance by the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau for the purchase of video tape equipment.

"The determination of local police officials to implement a multi-faceted action program to ensure increased safety for the citizens of Andover, is most commendable," the Governor said. "The application of this modern equipment will prove extremely valuable in up-grading local police traffic enforcement capabilities including the procurement of essential evidence to assist in the prosecution of drunken drivers, as well as recording other traffic offenses and documenting particulars of individual accidents."

"The utilization of video tape equipment represents a new concept in assisting local police officials in their efforts to improve the safety climate of their communities. The versatility of this new equipment is a valuable addition to these efforts," the Governor concluded.

The Combined Federal Campaign in the Merrimack Valley is being headed by Frank J. Mooney, Postmaster in Andover.

U. F. Gift Increased By Employees

An increase of $20,938, from the Andover Service Center - Internal Revenue Service to the Combined Federal Campaign has been reported. Frank Browitt, Director, said that the increase was part of a total gift of $34,422.

Mr. Browitt cited the total response by the employees is due to their recognition of the needs of the people in the Merrimack Valley that are being assisted by the 80 Casework, Health, and Character Building agencies included in the campaign. He also pointed out that this year, a majority of the employees contributed through payroll deduction.

The Co-chairmen of the drive were Henry Seufert, Assistant Director, and Francis O'Riordan, President, American Federation of Government Employees, Local 2078, AFL-CIO. Coordinating the campaign were Miss Edna Wood, Mrs. Roslin Esposito, and officers of the National Association of Internal Revenue Employees, Chapter 68.

The solicitors within each department, prior to the campaign, visited the Northern Essex County Association for Retarded Children, and the United Cerebral Palsy Association of the Merrimack Valley and saw the work being performed by these social agencies.

objects being hurled through his livingroom picture window for the second time in ten days. The high school's discipline officer, and the rocks, were present at the meeting.

The committee also directed the superintendent to ask the Andover Police Department to include the Silverman home regularly on night patrols, and to ask police advice on retaining a private investigative firm to concentrate on tracking down the violators.

Selfert called the harassment and vandalism at the Silverman home part of a larger pattern of disrespect for the rights and property of others, by a few hostile students. Attempts to damage school property include a Molotov cocktail thrown at Stowe School last winter. More recently, a metal door at the high school was crowbarred to $500 worth of damage, and a toilet bowl deliberately shattered at a cost of $300, plus other acts of vandalism attributed to a small number of students. Selfert said it was time to identify the students who do not choose to be in school "and they shall not be in school."

The superintendent said the schools' attempts to keep and deal with students who showed no respect for the rights of others had stemmed from knowledge that these young people had not caused all of their own problems, and the knowledge that there was no other agency provided by the community to deal with them, "but the cost had been high, in terms of education of other students." He said the high cost of vandalism at the high school must come from science equipment, field trips, eventually even instructional material budgeted for the benefit of the student body as a whole.

"We have been perhaps too reasonable in the holding power of the school to keep young people in school. We now have to rely more heavily on the community to deal with those students who don't respect the rights of others."

Committeeman William Lane called for uniform enforcement of punishment, as well as payment of property damages. He remembered the sobering effect that a week's suspension, for throwing a firecracker out of a school window had on him.

Frank Hill noted that the new policy would have an effect on the community, perhaps increasing the population of "the Wall". This is the Elm Square lounging spot which he calls the center for those who feel rejected by community and by school; he noted that many older citizens avoid walking in the area after dusk; "but we have reached the point where we have to put out into the community those students who choose to degrade the ability of the majority who wish to learn." It was acknowledged at the meeting that the harassment of the Silverman family might be ex-students, not just students.

Committeeman Frank Griggs noted, and others agreed, that the new firmer measures might temporarily increase Silverman's personal problems. Silverman said, however, that he knew the liabilities of the job when he accepted it, and would not change his mode of operating. He prosecuted a case for marijuana possession in the courts for the school last week and has another one coming up.

The four members of the committee present at the emergency meeting - Chairman William King, William Lane, Frank Griggs and Frank Hill, praised Silverman's performance and his stance.

Principal Philip Wormwood said it was too bad that court case loads and court delays lessened the effect that prosecution of offenders otherwise might have on other young people. Selfert agreed: Last year three bomb scares cost the community an estimated $6,000 a day in lost education time. Three young people were caught and prosecuted. After months in the courts, their cases recently were all dismissed, although each had confessed to the crime.

Arrest

Andover police shortly after 11 a.m. Wednesday, and two detectives and three cruisers responded and placed the demonstrators under arrest.

The group did not resist the enforcement officials.

The group was protesting the company's manufacture of missiles, and distributed literature relative to their points on the Vietnam war.

They carried placards protesting the work being carried out at the West Andover plant.

have offered to patrol the area around the Silverman home to put a stop to the destruction. Another note offering help arrived during a TOWNSMAN interview with Silverman Monday morning. The assistant principal has refused the offers with thanks, saying he didn't think they would be necessary.

Principal Wormwood said most students appreciate that Silverman is a fair person in his difficult job of enforcing the high schools rules.

"But unfortunately, some young people haven't received discipline or any basic values with which to operate in society. When someone has to lean on them for not accepting the rules of our society, they react in a vindictive way."

Wormwood took the matter straight to the student body Monday morning to ask their help in standing up against destructive vindictive acts by a few.

"If you have heard anything concerning this, you should let me know, otherwise you are giving tacit consent to this kind of act because you will not stand up against it. I promise you that I will hold in strictest confidence the identity of anyone who comes to me. No one can afford to sit on the sideline any longer and say 'It's not my business. Someone else will take care of it.' As Mr. Silverman's safety and security have been jeopardized, so in a real sense has ours - yours and mine. We cannot afford to let this small element within our society get away with this total disregard for the rights of decent people."

Wormwood and Silverman said there were no spectacular disciplinary cases at issue in the school just now. Most of Silverman's work deals with truancy, tardiness and class cutting, which he says has been cut 50 percent in his year on the job.

Vandalism is a major issue at the high school, and the focal point for it now is the girls' bathrooms, where dispensing machines were broken into last week to steal the coins, and where "trashing", obscene words on the walls, and deliberately stopped up toilets are evidently due to actions of a small group of girls.

Principal Wormwood last Thursday talked to the student body on vandalism, and told them that money for broken doors, bent forks in the cafeteria, repair of the equipment in the girls' bathrooms has to come out of field trips, athletic equipment and instructional materials. He asked help from the vast majority of students in stopping the vandalism of a few. He sees this issue as closely related to the destruction at the Silverman home, both in being the actions of a hostile minority and in the necessity for responsible student action to stop them, by reporting offenders. "I know that many of you resist this suggestion, but times and conditions are changing."

Checking with groups of students at the high school, and in the halls and outside, under the entrance ramp where smoking is permitted, showed that most of the high school students asked think the acts against the Silverman home were "sick," "rotten."

One small group of students, who evidently resent Silverman's disciplinary role, said the pumpkin thrown through the window was funny. "Why doesn't he move into an apartment?" one asked.

The next group was indignant. "He has to hand out discipline and he's fair," said one girl. "Most students like him. He has helped lots of students when they were in trouble, in school and out, I've heard kids who say they don't like him personally say it was a rotten thing to do." End there, after all, is the issue. "No one knows who did it," said one girl. "The people who did it wouldn't tell anyone, because no one would think it was cool or anything but lousy." Others think some people do know.

It remains to be seen whether the student body reaction against the undercover tactics against a school administrator is strong enough to buck the traditional and, ordinarily, understandable reluctance to give information against one's peers?

Spaghetti

In some regions of Italy, no day would pass without the natives consuming pasta once or twice. Here, we enjoy our weekly spaghetti dinner. Why are spaghetti and mararoni products so popular? Thank the Italians for the secret. They combined this inexpensive food with myriads of different well-flavored sauces to turn out delicious recipes. The pasta is capable of absorbing and intensifying anything with which it is combined. A good basic product treated with imagination is the culinary trick.

For an adventure with pasta, why not try a packaged spaghetti dinner with a new twist.

Over the centuries, money has been the subject of memorable quotations. According to Benjamin Franklin in 1735, "Nothing but money is sweeter than honey."

In 1706, Jonathan Swift wrote: "No man will take counsel, but every man will take money: therefore money is better than counsel." And an old Irish proverb had it that "a heavy purse makes a light heart."

We are indebted to money for several everyday expressions such as "getting your money's worth," "the root of all evil," "filthy lucre," "money talks," "putting your money where your mouth is," and "putting your two cents in."

What is more, there are local sayings relating to money in different countries with differing monetary units. American counterparts of these terms include "penny pincher" and "dollars to doughnuts."

School Board Names New Business Manager

The new business manager for the Andover public school system is Ed Weil, 11 Ivy Lane. The new administrator is a businessman with experience at Sears Roebuck, Turnstyle, J. M. Fields and Westarknit, a chain of retail clothing stores where he has been general manager the past two years.

The school committee Wednesday night unanimously approved the school administration's selection of Weil from a field of 30 applicants, after the principals and directors interviewed the 12 top candidates earlier in the week. Weil replaces Jack Berberian, who vacated the job in mid September for a salary increase in a neighboring school system.

The Andover school's new business manager attended the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, holds a liberal arts degree from Stanford University and has attended a number of management training seminars. Assistant Superintendent Vaughn I. Clapp, in recommending Weil, noted that he has 17 years' experience in the business field "with direct responsibility for purchasing, accounting, and budgeting, inventory control, plant operation and supervision of personnel."

Weil, a resident of Andover for the past five years, is married to the former Julie Winograd and has four children in the Andover public schools.

At his first day on the job Monday, Weil told the TOWNSMAN he was delighted and excited by the challenge of the position.

"We chose Andover to live in because of the excellence of its school system. My first hope is to make a contribution to that excellence. I am

Man's Arrival Traced To 22000 Years Ago

There were headlines in the world's major newspapers when the expeditions of Andover's Dr. Richard MacNeish found evidence in the caves of Peru that early man had already migrated to South America 22,000 years ago.

15,000-year old human bones, and artifacts, killed animal bones and foods which MacNeish's Robert S. Peabody Foundation for Archaeology expedition found in Peru's Ayacucho Valley have pushed man's arrival in South America twice as far back in time as previous evidence had placed it.

Nobel physicist Dr. Willard Libby has dated the evidence with improved carbon 14 techniques, which forces a complete rethinking of the geology, archaeology and anthropology of the Ice Age in the New World.

A week-long Andover Conference on Ayacucho Interdisciplinary Studies recently brought an international group of a dozen scientists to the Peabody Foundation for Archaeology to rethink the Ice Age in terms of the Ayacucho Valley, and eventually collaborate in publishing their conclusions.

The conference asked: What changes have taken place in the environment in the Ayacucho Valley in Peru in the past 20,000 years? A later conference building on this one will go beyond the environment and subsistence of man in the Ice Age to ask:

What changes in the economic system took place in the remarkable sequence of these Ayacucho people from living in caves and hunting mammoths, down thousands of years to becoming the capital of the New World's first great empire, reaching its peak in 800 A.D.? This ancestor civilization of the Incas, the Wari, then passed its peak and fell in 1000 to the Incas, then later to the Spanish.

Specialists in 30 different fields visited Ayacucho and have contributed to the present research. As well as anthropologists, archaeologists and geologists, zoologists and paleontologists, economic botanists and plant geneticists also were needed; the conference had a bean man, a corn man, a pepper expert, Dr. MacNeish explains, as well as a pollen analyst. Did you know that scientists today can still find Ice Age pollen in the glacial deposits of a bog?

A 22,000 year old human tool is a spectacular anthropological find, and changes science's conclusions on the date of man's appearance in South America from 11,000 to 22,000 years ago; but Dr. MacNeish and his colleagues are even more interested in combining research into Ice Age pollen of lost plants, an ancient peanut, remains of corn in ancient human feces, bones of domesticated llamas and guinea pigs, and artifacts with the anthropologist's study of the skull.

At such interdisciplinary conferences for which the Peabody Foundation is known, scientists present evidence to each other and draw various conclusions from the material, relating to their discipline. At the recent Andover Ayacucho Conference, they learned how and when llamas, guinea pigs, corn, peanuts and beans and a local fruit call lucuma were domesticated. In other words, when and how these people learned to get a stable food supply. The conferees have already determined that the Ayacucho people developed a stable food supply and villages in 4,000 B.C.

"Without a stable food supply," MacNeish points out, "there is no urbanization, no cultural or technological advances. Of course there also is no war! When people had to hunt and work for their food all the developed, precipitating social changes. "Just think of the social implications of an irrigation system! You have to have some sort of DPW, a policing system, taxes, and tax collectors, and a chief, who has a whole bureaucracy under him."

The Ayacucho Project gives MacNeish a chance to test out hypotheses he developed in years of work in Mexico, where he achieved fame by discovering the origination of corn, pinpointing it at Tehuacan, at about 7,000 B.C. The archaeologist-anthropologist says the methodology is the same, no matter where the project is. He says Tehuacan and Ayacucho's hypothesis and conclusions can be used and proved out in a study of wheat and barley in the Near East, or rice and millet in the Far East.

"Scotty" MacNeish has already worked in every political unit in the New World from the Arctic Circle to Honduras, except for the far Western coasts.

MacNeish graduated from the University of Chicago in 1940, where he later took his Ph.D., but he had already begun archaeological investigations in upper New York State before that.

During the depression, MacNeish led WPA work groups on archaeological digs in Kentucky, in areas to be flooded by the TVA. He later spent 20 summers in Canada studying the early migrations of man in the Yukon and the Northwest Territory. He began spending summer searching for the origination of corn in Mexico, the Tehuacan project from which five large volumes of collaborative scholarly research have been published. The Eskimoos of Canada noted that his annual migratory plan showed that he had at least as much sense as a duck.

Scotty MacNeish has a quick and an energetic manner, almost peppery, but he has been an enormous success in a field that requires enormous pains and patience. The Ayacucho Project began in 1966 and required a 10,000 mile search through 80 valleys before elimination made the Ayacucho Project the prime site. Organization, funding and arrangements with cooperating scientists and the Peruvian government took more time. The dig actually began in 1969 and went on for three March-October seasons, during Peru's dry winters. The digging is now finished. The actual findings remain in Peru, while the research and study and writing has hardly begun.

MacNeish seems philosophical about the fact that the museum which harbors the most spectacular anthropological and archaeological Ayacucho finds happens this week to be occupied by students who have barricaded it to resist the police.

But MacNeish has replicas, and his group of scientists has the data from which economic and cultural life of the Wari civilization of the Ayacucho Valley can be concluded.

After that, there are other even Older Worlds. Scotty MacNeish's new possibility and hope is an invitation to Red China, to use the methods of Tehuacan and Ayacucho to search for the origination of rice and millet in the Far East.

Outing Club On Climbing Expedition

The Andover-North Andover Outing Club conducted a mountain climbing expedition over the past weekend. Despite some inclement weather a group of 21 managed to climb Mt. Tremont, Owl Cliff and Cave Mountain in New Hampshire.

Boy climbers were housed overnight in the lodge of Richard Chapell in Jackson and girl climbers stayed in the James Reid chalet in Bartlett. Robert Kent was director of the trip with Richard Chapell, Larry Willwerth, Allis Lou Reid and Nancy Munn assisting.

The last prior Outing Club program was a bicycle trip to the Lawrence YMCA Day Camp on Captain's Pond in Salem, N.H., Oct. 28 and 29. The group of 18 stayed overnight at the camp. Tom Fitzgerald was the trip director and he was assisted by Dick Chapell, Ed Condon, Heinz Westphalen, Loretta Diaz, Helen Chapell and Rosemary Fitzgerald.

The final Fall Term program of the YMCA Outing Club will take the form of a Rocket Shooting Contest and cookout. Ken Barnhill will direct the program on Dec. 2. Outing Club members are presently constructing rockets to be entered in the several scheduled events which have proven popular over the several years since the rocket program was first initiated.

Christmas School Is Scheduled

Faith Lutheran church will hold its seventh annual Christmas school for four and five-year-olds Dec. 4 through 8.

The school which is open to all pre-schoolers in the community, is designed to teach children that Jesus is the true meaning, the center of Christmas. During the week youngsters will participate in daily worship, lessons and projects. On Friday, a playlet will be presented to parents and friends and the children will bring their gifts to be donated to the GLEAM program in Lawrence.

The school received national recognition when the religious magazine, "Resource," wrote an article covering the school and its purpose. As a result Faith church has sent materials to churches throughout the country assisting them in setting up a similar program.

Co-directors are Mrs. Ray Clayton, Buxford and Mrs. Donald Myrom, Andover. Registration forms have been sent to all local churches. Registration deadline is Nov. 27 with enrollment limited to 50.

Parents interested in enrolling their children should contact their own church or secretary of the school, Mrs. C. Henry Anderson, 14 Rennie Drive, Andover.

Hockey Association To Begin Action On Weekend

The Andover Hockey Association, Inc., will open its 1972-'73 season this coming weekend and over 400 Andover boys will take to the ice as the program gets underway. The boys will be divided into ten groups for initial assessment of their skills. The program includes youngsters of age 7 and 8 with little or no skating skill and reaches its peak with boys aged 13 and 14 who have progressed through the program to the point where their skating and hockey skills have become quite polished.

The Association has several hours of ice time per week available at both the Phillips Academy and Merrimack College rinks in which to conduct its program.

The younger boys spend most of the season learning general skating skills while boys in the next age level work on skating skills directly related to hockey as well as basic fundamental hockey skills. In the second half of the season these boys are placed on four teams playing a round-robin set of intra-mural games.

At the PeeWee level (ages 11 and 12) boys continue to work to develop their skating skills and concentrate more on team play as well as on individual hockey techniques. Here, also, boys are assigned to intramural teams for a series of games. Also, two teams of boys of top ability in this classification are selected for several games with teams from other communities.

Boys in the 13 and 14 year old age group are classified as Bantams. In this group 60 boys will try-out for the Andover Bantam "A" team which will play an international schedule of games throughout the winter months and the Bantam "B" team which will play a schedule of games with teams from other towns.

For the seventh consecutive season the Andover Hockey Association has been invited to send its Bantam "A" team to Canada during the February school vacation. Plans are being finalized for the team to represent Andover in games with teams in Toronto and Oshawa to visit here in March.

All of the teams and each of the boys in the program are registered with the New England Amateur Hockey Association as well as with the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States.

Each of the boys in the intramural program receives a team jersey and boys on the Bantam and PeeWee teams are fully uniformed. All boys in the program are covered by hockey injury insurance.

Some 60 volunteer coaches instruct the boys in the program. Several meetings have been held to review the placement of boys who have participated in the program before and the coaches reviewed drills and skills to be taught at the various levels.

And so on Saturday morning over 400 Andover boys will be dusting off their hockey sticks and donning their skates for the start of what appears to be the greatest season yet in the Andover Hockey Association's Youth Program.

TABLE TENNIS. The Andover-North Andover YMCA has introduced table tennis to its programming, using the North Andover Community Center facilities. In action at the center are Mark Smith, Dolores Stiglin, Martha MacLeish, Karen Longton, Debbi Lally, Elizabeth Reichter and Instructor Bruce Battler.

Table Tennis Underway

The Andover-North Andover YMCA started a Table Tennis program this week in the North Andover YMCA facility (Community Center). The experimental program will help to determine whether there is an interest and a need in this program area which seems to be poorly serviced in the two communities.

Equipment will be provided, including several standard tables. Registrations are presently being accepted only at the Andover YMCA facility, 10 Brook St.

If enough interest is evidenced a winter program will be scheduled after the holiday season. The present program serves four age groups as follows: Boys and girls in grades 4-6, Mondays 3:30-5 p.m.; Grades 7-9 Mondays 5-6:30 p.m.; Grades 10-12, Mondays 6:30-8 p.m.; Adults 8-9:30 p.m. on Mondays.

Advance registration is required. No walk-in participation or spectators will be permitted.

Did you ever wonder who invented taxes? It wasn't England's King George III, nor King Solomon, nor the Pharaohs of Egypt, nor the Roman emperors, nor the rulers of ancient Greece or China—although all of these were notable tax collectors.

One theory is that the idea may have actually started millions of years ago when industrious beavers developed their share-the-work plan.

Faced with the need to cut down trees, dig canals, and build dams to hold back creek water, beavers found that all could benefit if each contributed his share of the chewing, digging and building.

FRESHMAN QUARTERBACKS Bill Alexander (left) of Andover West and Glenn Verrette of Andover East will be directing their respective Frosh football teams against one another Saturday morning in the annual East-West freshman game at the high school field. This should be the best game in the series to date, as West enters with a 6-0-0 record while East is 4-1-1.

Andover Grid Title At Stake

By Rick Harrison
The most important football game in Andover this weekend is set for Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, as the Andover East freshmen battle the Andover West frosh in a showdown for town grid supremacy.

The game will be played on the high school field, and for the first time since the junior highs were divided, both teams will enter with excellent overall records.

In fact, it would have been a clash of undefeated teams if Methuen had not upset Andover East 14-12 last week.

The East Frosh, are still enjoying their finest season in some time with an overall record of 4-1-1.

The West Frosh, unbeaten for three seasons and 20 games, are perfect on the 1972 campaign with a 6-0-0 mark.

Neither club would really consider this a completely successful season without a victory in Saturday's seasonal wrap-up, and a large crowd is expected to be on hand at Lovely Field.

Both teams have excellent all-around athletes at the important quarterback position. Lefthander Glenn Verrette barks signals for the East, while Bill Alexander engineers the West offense.

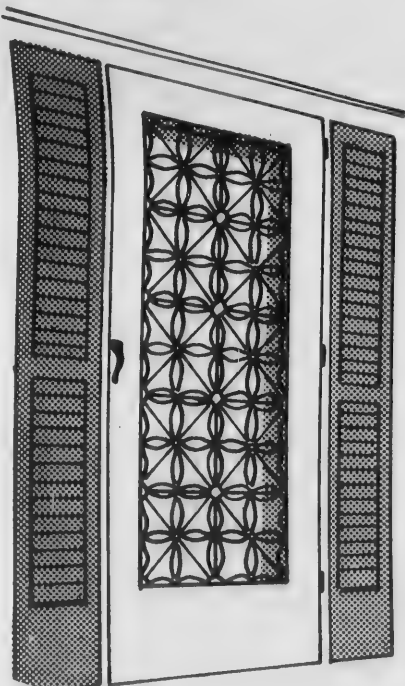

East has outscored the opposition by a healthy 116-42 margin, while West boasts an equally-impressive 120-42 point spread on the enemy. The rivals have each posted two shutout victories.

Andover East wins have come at the expense of Wilmington (8-0), Lawrence Voke (34-0), Tewksbury (30-6) and Phillips Academy (26-16). The team tied St. John's Prep (6-6) and lost to Methuen.

Verrette has fired five touchdown passes thus far, four to sure-handed end Mark Farnham and one to strong Glenn has also scored four TDs himself, including one on the money end of a 15-yard halfback option pass from Dan Billings.

Billings leads the team in scoring with five touchdowns, while running backs Mike Foote and Rich Arrigo have also hit the scoring column.

The Verrette-to-Farnham passing combination has clicked with consistent efficiency. Sparky Farnham has hauled in 20 passes altogether, and looks like he may pick up where record-breaking brother Bob leaves off at Andover High.

Mark could have had six TD receptions, but two long scoring bombs were called back by penalties in the Wilmington opener.

The East offensive line, opening the holes for Black, Arrigo, Foote, Verrette and company, includes Dale Crossan and Dave Earley at the guards, Mark Rocco and Gerry Cushing at tackle and Bruce Laspesa at center.

Most of the players double on defense. Key performers include Mike O'Brien and Dan Billings at end, Mike Foote at left outside linebacker, Rich Arrigo at right halfback and Glenn Verrette at safety.

The East defense made a brilliant goalline stand to save the tie with St. John's. Another late goalline stand turned the Tewksbury game around, as East led only 14-6 when it halted the visitors at the one yard line.

Verrette helped preserve the Phillips game, stealing the ball out of a pass receiver's hand to set up the last East TD WITH East ahead by a slim 20-16 margin.

Andover West, playing what is considered the tougher schedule, has whipped Dracut (6-0), Lawrence Voke (30-14), Chelmsford (16-6), Billerica (24-6), Burlington (14-0) and Lawrence Central (30-16).

Both Dracut and Chelmsford dropped their only game to West, which was 5-0-2 last year and 7-0-0 the season before.

Alexander, who quarterbacked the West Frosh as an eighth grader last year, has scored eight touchdowns himself for 48 points. Bill has also chucked three TD passes, two to Bob Hannon and one to Jim Watson. Watson is the second leading scorer with three touchdowns.

West generally alternates four running backs behind Alexander, with Joe Fiorenza, Bob Hoelzel, Dave Mirisola and Jaimie Meyers all seeing considerable action.

Bulwarking the offensive line are tackles Jim Deyermund and Dave Walker, guards Dave Packard and Paul Kelly and center Tom Henderson.

Most West performers also see double duty, and the first-string defensive unit includes Alexander at safety, Ken LaFleur, Mirisola, Deyermund, Hoelzel, Walker, Henderson, Hannon, Fiorenza and George Starks.

The majority of the opposition's points have been scored against the second West unit, long after the game is out of reach.

Last year West defeated East by a 22-12 margin behind the running and passing of Alexander.

West has enjoyed the edge on the gridiron ever since the teams were split, but this season's conflict looms as a toss-up.

Both coaches have promised a few new wrinkles in the offense to shake things up.

The West team is coached by Karl Lippman with Doug Hamilton assisting. The first-year head coach at East is Bob King with Ken Maglio assisting.

ABC Boys Guests At Workshop

By Gary C. Ralph

This past Tuesday evening, the boys who live in the ABC House on North Main Street were the guests of the Recreation-Community School Department at our Civic Workshop. Their sincere answers to audience questions provided additional insight into their backgrounds and their experiences here in Andover.

My congratulations to the Andover Community Theater players and the supportive crew on the successful production of "Barefoot in the Park" this past Saturday evening. There is always a great deal of hard work and many frustrations in putting on a show. I hope the appreciation of the audience helped erase the memories of all the work and left a pleasurable feeling of satisfaction. Speaking for the Recreation-Community School Department, I can say that we are very pleased you are part of our organization. We will be looking forward to your next production.

I thought this week that we would depart from the regular format of our articles.

As a result of a successful inaugural program for this department and the new ideas people have suggested, I think we are assembling an interesting winter schedule of activities and programs. The Winter schedule will begin in January. All of the new activities, as well as the on-going programs from the Fall schedule will be listed in your newspaper.

You will also receive a brochure in the mail announcing our second series of Recreation Community School programs. Several of the activities are excellent illustrative examples of what a person can accomplish by using this Department as a resource.

In future articles I will discuss the means by which we developed ideas and how we implemented the programs. I hope we can excite your curiosity about the new programs, and solicit more suggestions.

Did you know that a woman's picture at one time appeared on a dollar bill? That there were once three-dollar bills? That money at one time could be eaten? Or that in South Carolina they once had legal tender you could drink?

These are only a few of the many money innovations for which the creators of early currency deserve credit.

The Romans collected a tax on the toga, a popular garment of the day. The more elegant the toga, the higher the tax. Ancient Greece taxed doorways which opened outward on public footways. A tax on windows forced many persons to live in dark and cheerless homes in England and Holland, and a French fireplace tax resulted in a lot of frost-bitten Frenchmen.

Beards, wigs, funerals and even bachelors have been taxed at one time or another.

Group To Seek Aid

NORTH ANDOVER - The North Andover Scholarship Foundation, an organization that helps qualified students attend college, met last week to discuss a money raising campaign for 1972-1973.

Representatives to the Scholarship Committee and President Joseph Shea decided to have a town mailing asking for contributions for individuals and businesses in January, 1973. Plans were made to hold a food sale at the High School during their 'Open House', on November 28 and 30. Members of the National Honor Society and the Student Council will conduct the sale.

Music To Our Ears

By Edward P. Grigoli
Director of Music

Representational or illusory staging is attempting to represent life, to create the illusion for the audience that life of a particular time, place, or kind is actually occurring. The director of the representational production is pleased when the spectator at the end of an act has to shake himself to realize that he is in a theatre rather than in Amanda prynne's apartment, or on Chris Christopherson's coal barge, or in the Elysian Fields. It is said with validity that representational staging is anti-theatrical; that is, it wholeheartedly rejects the existence of the stage platform and, indeed, the theatre itself.

The illusion created in representational staging may be partly real and partly unreal, or completely unreal, but in every case an illusion is created.

Presentational or conventional production procedures are characterized by the frank recognition that the stage is merely a platform. The stage does not represent a kitchen, or a boxing ring, or a room in Hades. It is a platform where the drama is acted out or presented. It is theatrical in the sense that the production is, admittedly, in a theatre, on a stage. It is conventional in that the production's acceptance by an audience depends upon a series of conventions or rules or procedure, as in reality all theatrical production does. The prime difference is that amount and purpose of the convention.

We all learn from other people's mistakes. But unfortunately, some of us have to be the "other people." One of these mistakes can be setting the wrong selling price on your house. An under-priced house will sell fast, but the owner will lose money. An over-priced house will not move at all, and many excellent buyers will be lost to others.

and the wear and tear it has seen.

Call in a good, well-established local Realtor, for this vital determination. He's experienced in real estate evaluation and is in constant touch with the local market. He knows what homes are selling at what prices. It's a nice feeling to have him working on your side right from the start.

What your house is worth is not what you think it is, or what the buyer might think it is. Its true value is determined by its location, the general economic climate, the current local real estate situation, the age of the property

GOTCHA. Fullback Joe McManus is in for the score in Saturday's 19-7 win over Ipswich. McManus scored this one in the final period after Billy Canty pounced on a loose ball which led to the scoring drive.

Knights Defense Wins

By Bob Edwards

NORTH ANDOVER - The defense picked up a valuable and well-earned victory for the Scarlet Knights Saturday afternoon at Alvah G. Hayes field, handing a tough Ipswich team a 19-6 loss.

It was the third loss suffered by the visiting Tigers over a three year span, with the Scarlet Knights having two of those wins.

To accomplish the winning effort, it took a mighty surge by the North Andover defense, led by Bill Driscoll, Billy Canty and Dave Puopolo.

Driscoll chalked up a well-earned touchdown when he cut short an Ipswich offensive effort by recovering a fumble in the end zone to put North Andover ahead 9-6 in the third period.

Up to that time, North Andover had been able to only register on a three point field goal by Joe McManus, McManus toed the ball at the 23 and it just made the cross bar, with only a few minutes remaining in the first half.

Bill Coleman, explosive back for Ipswich had put the Tigers on the scoreboard in the first period on a 75-yard sprint.

Coleman was off and running on another scoring jaunt early in the second half when he was cut down at about the 15-yard line by Dave Puopolo. This was followed by a strong defensive effort by the Knights which saw Ipswich lose ground and eventually turn the ball over to the Knights.

With Dave Cunningham, Joe McManus and Puopolo doing the bulk of the carrying, the Knights moved the ball to the Ipswich ten where they lost the ball on a fumble.

The Knights defense kept the Tigers deep in their own territory and set up the opportunity for Driscoll to bull through and pounce on the Ipswich fumble which turned the tide.

In the fourth period, the Knight's defense again held and forced a punting situation.

A bad pass from center went over the kicker and Billy Canty recovered the ball on the Tigers' 19.

Joe McManus climaxed that drive with a two yard plunge to up the score to the final winning margin.

Head Coach Bob Roche was more than pleased with the win, noting the effort of the club after two heartbreaking losses in a row.

Both clubs stayed pretty much to a ground game, with only 11 aerials tossed during the contest.

Roche was high in his praise of Driscoll, Canty and Jim Greenwood and also the dogged determination of Joe McManus in the win. Quarterback Dave Cunningham was also singled out for praise, noting the young signal caller had called a number of audibles at the line.

Roche feels they gave the team the impetus it needed to get ready for Pentucket, which has captured the Cape Ann league conference title. The Knights meet Pentucket in the season windup on Thanksgiving Day.

North Andover will take a 5-2-1 record into the final game making it another winning season for the Knights.

Italians enjoy their pasta in all shapes and sizes — shells, long and thin, flat, round, cylindrical. What is pasta? It's a general term applied to a spectrum of products made from durum wheat and water. Over the years, the list has grown to include at least forty different shapes, plus all of the long, string-like types, categorized as spaghetti.

Not satisfied with plain descriptive names, the Italians claim to "make poetry with pasta" by using romantic names. Uniquely shaped pasta called farfalle (little butterflies), cappelli di pagliaccio (clown's caps), lancette (small spears), grace the soups, sauce and casseroles of an endless variety of dishes.

OFF AND RUNNING. Art Demoulas (23) leaves a trail of white shirts as he goes up the middle from Andover's five yard line to midfield in the Golden Warrior win over Methuen last Saturday.

Scoreboard Proves Andover Won

By Rick Harrison

Methuen tried to put a lid on Andover High's explosive offense by playing ball control, but it didn't work as the Golden Warriors made the big plays and stormed past the visitors 29-16 in the second annual Homecoming Game before 3000 fans at Lovely Field last Saturday.

The hard-earned victory, in which Methuen dominated the final statistics, was Andover's seventh straight and kept its slim hopes alive for a co-championship in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

The Warriors are now 7-1 overall and 6-1 in the Conference. Wilmington, a 20-6 winner over Billerica last weekend, is 6-0 in the league and needs only a victory on Thanksgiving Day over Tewksbury.

That could be tougher than it sounds, however, as Tewksbury belted Dracut 28-0 in its last start and gave Andover fits before bowing 13-12 on the final play of the game.

"Methuen tried the only thing it could to stop our offense," stated a happy Coach Dick Collins after his team's triumph. "They kept the ball away from us."

But no team can control the action 100 percent of the time, so Andover made the most of its limited opportunities.

Andover all-purpose quarterback Scott Seero fired two more touchdown passes to fleet and deceptive wide receiver Bob Farnham, while defensive end Dave Sweetser scored on a 45-yard "steal" and Seero cruised four yards to complete the AHS scoring.

Seero's brace of TD aeriels gave him 14 in Conference play, a new MVC record snapping the old mark of 13 held jointly by Wilmington signal-callers Billy Walls (1967) and Bill Gustus (1970).

Farnham's touchdowns were his 12th and 13th of the year, and he also added a two-point conversion on a busted play. Bob now boasts 80 total points for the season, best in Greater Lawrence.

"Farnham made the difference for us in this game," explained Collins. "He and Seero just seem to get better and more amazing each week, and the two touchdowns today were just beautiful."

"There were several turning points in this one," continued the AHS coach, "but two particular things stick out in my mind. Sweetser's touchdown was a very important play, and then stopping them inside our 10 yard line late in the third period gave us a big lift."

The score was 21-8 at that time, but the grind-it-out Rangers had taken the third period kickoff and controlled play for 9:35 before having to surrender on downs at the Andover seven yard line.

"That was the toughest team we've played all season," remarked Collins. "They hit hard and even made us gamble with a goalline defense in the middle of the field to stop their running game."

For openers, the final figures showed Methuen ahead in first downs (23-7), yards rushing (332-43) and total offensive plays (77-30).

But the scoreboard is the only place where it really counts, and as a dejected Methuen Coach Bob Rosmarino said later: "A few months from now all that anyone will remember is that Andover whipped Methuen."

The first quarter was scoreless, with a pair of booming Seero punts keeping the Warriors out of serious trouble.

Scotty's boots travelled 53 and 56 yards from scrimmage, but in total both kicks sailed close to 70 yards in the air.

The Rangers did mount a threat following Seero's first punt, moving steadily from their own 21 to the Andover 17 on 12 straight running plays. A pair of Andover offside penalties also hurt.

But with second-and-3 at the 17, Methuen quarterback Fred Simm fumbled and Andover's Kurth Derosiers pounced on the loose ball.

The big ground gainer in this and every drive for Methuen was workhorse junior halfback Lee Holden.

For the entire afternoon Holden piled up an incredible 217 yards on 43 carries, consistently hitting the line for four and five yards per crack.

He also played the whole game on defense at right outside linebacker, and saved an apparent TD on the final play of the game by hauling down Dave Hubbell from behind after a 76-yard interception return. No one will ever know how Holden had enough steam left to do it.

Andover erupted for 21 lightning-fast points within a four minute span in the second period.

It all began when Warriors' safety Mike Murnane intercepted Simm's first pass attempt at the Methuen 35. Seero and Farnham took control immediately, collaborating on a brilliant 35-yard touchdown strike.

Seven plays after the ensuing kickoff, Sweetser pulled off the "big heist."

The 6'1", 188-pound senior stole the ball right out of Simm's hand, burst from the pack at the Methuen 45 and galloped all the way to paydirt untouched as everyone else looked on in amazement.

Methuen appeared slip-rattled by the sudden change of events, and Holden fumbled at the Rangers' 25 moments later. Dave Hubbell's tackle made him cough up the ball which Steve Richards quickly covered.

Seero chucked a 16-yard rollout pass to fullback Bob McCarthy, and then a Methuen offside advanced the ball to the Rangers' four.

Quarterback Scott slipped around the left side and breezed into the endzone for his eighth seasonal TD. Methuen refused to roll over and play dead, however, and took Seero's kickoff to start a 13-play, 72-yard march for its first TD with 28 seconds left in the half.

Holden once again did the bulk of the work, lugged the leather seven times for 45 of those yards. Tom Fran and Bruce Nicholson also did some power running, and Simm burst off right tackle for the touchdown from nine yards out.

Holden swept the right side for the two-point conversion, cutting the gap to 21-8.

The third period was devoted to Methuen's lengthy, time-consuming trek from its own 21 to the Andover seven. Holden carried nine times for 40 yards, Fran three times for 18 yards and Nicholson three times for 10 yards.

But on fourth-and-6 from the AHS nine, Nicholson was stopped short by Dave Hubbell, Jeff Towne and Mike Murnane.

Five plays late Seero was forced to punt, and Methuen took control again at its own 39. It took just six running plays to move the necessary 61 yards to TD territory.

Holden found a big hole over the right side and scampered in untouched. Simm rushed the conversion and Methuen was back in it, trailing only 21-16 with 6:51 yet to play.

Seero went for the jugular later, and applied the clinching blow with a 26-yard pass-and-run TD aerial to Farnham.

Seero was supposed to kick the extra point again, but the snap from center was too high and holder Farnham had to think fast.

Bobby flipped the ball to Seero and circled out into the right flat. Scott calmly lofted a soft pass into his hands for the two points.

It looked like a brilliant piece of material sent in from the bench, but actually it was just a fine recovery and a 29-16 Andoverbuge with 2:43 to play.

Defensive standouts for the Golden Warriors were Dave Jackson, Jeff Towne, Pizarro, Richards, Sweetser, Murnane, Hubbell and Derosiers.

Offensively it was Dave Ashton, Co-Capt. Steve Alexander, Bill Haskell, Jay Pennick, Towne and Richards leading the way.

The stats on Seero and Farnham for the complete season now read this way:

Seero, who was 8-for-14 for 146 yards against Methuen, now is 77-of-151 for 1,437 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Farnham, who caught 6-for-130 yards against Methuen, now has pulled down 54 passes for 1,069 yards and 13 TDs.

A week from today Andover will complete its 1972 season and begin a new Thanksgiving Day rivalry against Central Catholic (1-7) at Lovely Field.

The series was supposed to have started last year, but a snowstorm cancelled the game.

Andover seniors who will be playing in their final game next week include Seero, Farnham, Joe Tisbert, Sweetser, Art Demoulas, Fred Iannazzi, Mike Murnane, Blaine Randall, John Christopher, Ed Flannery, Hubbell, Jay Pennick, Bob Hughes, Kurth Derosiers, Steve Alexander, Seth Traub and Steve Paulsford.

The developing countries say their environmental problems are hunger, disease and poverty, and that no country should undermine their economic growth under the pretext of protecting the environment, the Massachusetts Audubon Society points out.

Memorial Hall Library

Nathaniel Hawthorne
"Nathaniel Hawthorne" will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Gerald R. Griffin, assistant professor of English at Northeastern University, to be given upstairs at the library on Thursday, Nov. 30. Dr. Griffin is a native of Reading; he has lived in Andover for years. In addition to a bachelor of arts degree, he holds a master of arts degree and a doctorate degree from the University of Massachusetts. Dr. Griffin's doctoral dissertation on the fiction apocrypha of Hawthorne will be published by The John Colet Press as part of a series on American literature. Last March Dr. Griffin delivered The Lyceum Lecture for the Essex Institute and he has also been a speaker for The Victorian Club of Boston. Memorial Hall Library is fortunate to be able to present Dr. Griffin on Nov. 30 at 8 p.m. The program is presented as the second in a series on regional authors and anyone interested in nineteenth century American literature will find this a rewarding evening.

Christmas Workshop

Mrs. Irene Harndon will be giving her Christmas workshop again three Monday mornings in a row at the library. The time will be 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. and the dates will be Nov. 27, Dec. 4 and Dec. 11. Please telephone the library or sign up in person if you are interested in learning to make Christmas wreaths and swags. The following items must be brought to the classes: coat hanger or styrofoam wreath, spool wire, ribbon, wire clippers, pen knife, and greens (fresh, long-needle pine works best).

Opera Club

The Library Opera Club will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 29 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bertheim, 226 Hampshire St., Methuen. The Opera Club welcomes new members, especially those who enjoy the music of Richard Wagner. This winter we are listening to all the operas in the Ring of the Nibelungen.

Youth Library Club

The first meeting of the Young Adult Library Group was held last Thursday at 3 p.m. The activities of the group will include book selection, photography, publicity and exhibit work, reading to the elderly and special programs at Christmas.

Any young person from junior high through twelfth grade is invited to attend the meetings, the next one to be in charge of Sherman Pridham, Young Adult Librarian, at the library on Thursday, Nov. 16 at 3:15 p.m.

Youth Film

The film "Frankenstein" will be shown at the library at 7:30 the evening after Thanksgiving. Everyone is invited to attend; a fee of fifty cents will be charged.

Russian Exhibit

Mrs. Arthur Larson of North Andover has collected many works of art from Russia and loaned them to the library for November. A carved wooden box belonging to Mrs. K. C. Killorin is also included in the exhibit.

Silver Craft

The silversmith class at the Andover High School is holding at the library an exhibit of jewelry handcrafted in the school workshop. Everyone is invited to come and see this exhibit beautifully displayed in a glass top case made by the industrial arts class at the high school.

The Town of Andover is wealthy in free land area and certainly should have solved the land fill problem without spending $40,000 on a limited engineering study by an outside engineering firm which ultimately was not used to its fullest sease.

I find it offensive to be dictated to by town officials who seem hell bent on establishing a top heavy, inefficient, costly government that requires outside corporations to solve relatively uncomplicated problems.

If these top management positions are such that assistants are necessary, it must be clear that the men in these positions are inept or the system in force is not adaptable or flexible enough for current conditions and problems.

Youth Concerts Underway

NORTH ANDOVER-The fourteenth series of Youth Concerts at Symphony Hall opened Wednesday with a program of Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf," selections from "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Mussorgsky and a tone poem entitled "The Earth's Children" written and conducted by Phil Wilson.

The concerts are attended by many children and parents from North Andover and Andover. The series consist of three concerts, held in November, January and March. Harry Ellis Dickson is the Founder and Conductor of the concerts. The town Chairman in North Andover is Mrs. James Plant. Edward Grigoli is the town chairman for Andover. The towns make no profit from the concerts and have chairmen only to facilitate the purchase of tickets from Symphony Hall.

Subscriptions to the series may be purchased in the spring.

Hockey Workshops Scheduled

The Andover Recreation/Community School Department will be holding floor hockey workshops for both East and West Junior High Schools. East Jr. High is open for general play on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 9 p.m. West Jr. High is open Monday evenings from 6:30 to 9 p.m. There have been many requests for floor hockey. Thus, several hockey workshops are scheduled in addition to gymnastics, basketball, ping pong and volleyball. Every session is open to students from both Junior High Schools. If sufficient interest is shown, we will offer both a boys and girls league.

For further information, please contact the Andover Recreation/Community School Department in town hall.

The greening of America is with us everywhere! Plants are enjoying a big business boom and have taken to every room and corner of the house as decorating focal points.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

The Town of Andover is threatened financially due to erratic planning and top heavy, unbalanced management.

The method of government, as dictated by town charter, is proving unsound and inefficient. The Selectmen have very little power to direct and devise solutions to a multitude of problems. The Town Manager needs an assistant, likewise the Superintendent of Schools. Salary requirements for these people are outlandish and unrealistic.

What really comes to light is the fact that town government is inefficient and very costly.

Open town meeting is guided by those few who have a selfish cause. Once thought of as "democracy in action" town meeting has been reduced to serve the few with a cause.

Sad Commentary

Recent youthful activity in Andover, which prompted a special school committee meeting this week, is indeed, sad commentary on the status of a minority of our young society.

The special meeting was called to deal with the conditions stemming from the arbitrary stoning of the home of the assistant high school principal, who is the chief disciplinarian of the school.

It can only be guessed that the breaking of two large windows in the home of Gerald Silverman, can only be reprisal for action taken by him to make some of our modern youths conform to law and order.

To some of our younger set, the words law and order apparently are meaningless.

It is in these youthful vandals that we can see the products of the seeds planted by a liberal society beginning to sprout forth.

These are the young people who are destined to be the supposed leaders of tomorrow, having been handed everything on a silver platter during their young lives.

They will be provided with all the luxuries of life, such as cars, etc., at the risk of the breaking down of an essential element-family life.

Many are the congregants of the famed "Wall" in Elm square in many cases a salient example of ambitionless society, yelping that there is no place to go, nothing to do. When provided the opportunity, they immediately destroy their meeting place.

School does not interest them, since therein lies a need to conform to some sort of norm.

Offenses such as have been inflicted upon the Silverman family are handled quite differently in areas outside of our liberal shores.

Such occurrences are met with stiff jail penalties, fines or both.

Thousands will tell you this doesn't work, but it has proven otherwise, for if it does nothing else, it makes the perpetrator think, something he currently seems incapable of doing on a concentrated basis.

Some concentrated effort toward bringing these young people back to reality, no matter how stern the punishment required, would appear to be the only solution to a growing problem.

The Victor

The election of Paul W. Cronin, to Congress last week is a victory to be cherished not just by the Andover Republican, but the voters of the Fifth Congressional District.

In his elevation to national government, Cronin has attained another goal in his personal quest for public service, a role for which he has studied and worked at for a number of years.

To gain the victory over a formidable opponent required diligent, continued effort. Cronin was equal to the challenge and applied the effort which spelled victory for him on Nov. 7.

The young man has pledged his life to public service, both through education and experience. He was well tutored in the mechanics of Congressional operations as an administrative assistant to the man he succeeded, F. Bradford Morse.

His immediate efforts were directed toward expressing his appreciation to those who supported his candidacy, and to get on with the job at hand, serving the constituents of the Fifth Congressional District as quickly as possible.

The area has been without a Congressman since May when Morse accepted an appointment to the United Nations. Cronin is working to provide the service before his official assumption of the duties of the office in January.

Of particular concern to the state and district at the moment, in view of the national election results, must be the amount of attention the Commonwealth might receive from the Executive Branch in Washington.

We feel that with the experience Congressman-Elect Cronin will be taking to the Capital with him, the Fifth district will be heard from.

He is a youthful, energetic voice, who has proven his ability to face the issues unemotionally and in the best interests of all the people.

We look forward to his service on Capital Hill with the assurance that the voters in the Fifth Congressional district responded to the need for a wise and proper decision.

The Specs

It seems a little late to start protesting the development of plans for renovation of the Shawsheen and Doherty schools, as recently reviewed by the school committee.

The architects have drawn up the specifications after working with the school building committee appointed for the project.

The plans, as they now stand, are beyond the original estimate by about $200,000.

To protest the cost now, would only delay the final planning further.

Some have protested portions of the plans. This, too, seems a little late in the game to be making such effort.

It would seem more advisable to get on with the project, thoroughly explain its necessity and move forward before the costs go any higher.

The time for debate, it would appear, has passed, since the need to provide adequate, modern educational space is now. The program needs to be expedited rather than hindered at this point.

Off The Top Of The Desk

Women and their hats have long been a source of problems, particularly in places of congregation, relieved only lately by the apparent current fashion wherein hats are out.

The problem is one which has been perpetual, however, as witness this vignette from the Heywood - Wakefield catalogue about conditions in the local churches many years ago.

"The Parish Disapproves of the female sex sitting with their hats on in the Meeting-house in time of divine service as being indecent. The female sex should take their hats off and hang them on the pegs."

The comment is from the proceedings of the First Parish Church, Andover, 1769.

The particular church is now the North Parish church in the old center in North Andover.

Clarke Booth on a Boston television news team, always seems to have a bright comment or two about the sports scene when he is assigned to that portion of programming.

We think his lead into coverage of the Patriots debacle last Sunday in Miami.

Booth reported, "The Pats won the opening toss, after which they should have chosen to go home."

The departure of the Patriots' Coach John Mazur would hardly help the plight of the Boston, (New England) pro football club. Seems more deep than just the coaching effort.

With the signing on of a new head man for the rest of the season, one can expect a couple of upset wins from the New England club. It generally follows when a new man takes over.

The annual Andover Firemen's Ball was held last Friday night at the Andover Country Club and an enjoyable time was had by all.

Making the evening its usual success was the appearance once again of a regular vocalist.

Fred Yancy, popular Andoverite, entertained on a couple of occasions during the evening, making the event complete.

If one gets the idea that we are overly concerned with conditions on Route 114 and Waverly road in North Andover, then the impression is correct.

Our concern is that it apparently isn't getting to the right people. We have often commented on the intersection itself, being extremely dangerous.

Now, crews have been stringing out a road repair project from the highway to the Andover line, making the problem even worse, narrowing the roadway to almost one-way and as for crossing 114 onto the roadway under repair--worst conditions ever.

The repair section is also poorly lit at night as far as adequate lighting and barriers are concerned.

Newton found a cure to the annual leaf problem.

They called out the Guard. Last Sunday a National Guard troop joined town residents in making a town wide pickup of leaves to be placed in an area of town to be mulched over the winter months.

Next spring the residents can have their leaves back, as mulch to assist in the growing season.

Speaking of leaves, we have noticed a spritely lady on Maple avenue who seems to be at her annual chore in fine fashion and probably will be able to give the National Guard a lesson in the art of leaf raking.

And, before leafing the subject, we remind our North Andover friends that the town does not have a leaf-loading machine.

The pictures of such machinery in operation have been taken on Andover streets by the Andover public works department. Highway Surveyor Nicholas D. Bicetta of North Andover has received a few calls asking when certain streets would be visited.

We're afraid Nick can't talk DPW Director McQuade of Andover into extending the service.

A state of the environment report in the latest communication from Atty. Gen. Quinn's office has a catchy phrase and picture.

The phrase "Look who quit smoking," accompanies a picture of jet taking off from Logan airport. The airliner is shown airborne without the usual stream of black smoke formerly accompanying such activity.

Most major airlines are now equipped with anti-pollution gear.

Beacon Hill Observations

By Bill Kirtz

Claiming President Nixon's landslide victory will further encourage a "direct attack on the Bill of Rights," Daniel Ellsberg believes the "Nixon-Johnson tradition of secrecy has led to cynicism among American voters."

"What passes for apathy is more ominous than that," contends the former Defense Department planner who is charged with espionage for leaking the Pentagon Papers to the press.

Rather, he believes, it's "desperation and frustration at being unable to trust a candidate-any candidate. People don't feel that they can change a policy, and so they don't want to be fooled and humiliated any more" by working for any Presidential aspirant: "The public has been manipulated and lied to by all Comers."

Dr. Ellsberg is touring the country during a recess in his trial under the espionage acts. The Government charges that making secret documents available to The New York Times, the Boston Globe and other newspapers is a crime because it harms the national interest.

But the defendant sees the prosecution as a move to "take back the Bill of Rights."

"There is no such law" as the one for which he faces 115 years in prison, he declares.

"If the Administration succeeds in making one for my case, leaking to the press will then be a crime and all reporters will have to tell their sources. That will be as effective a form of censorship, for practical purposes, as in the Philippines, where the papers are owned by the dictator's friends and relations."

Once backed war

The former Marine Corps officer and Rand Corporation "think tank" analyst, who holds a Ph.D. in economics, admits that he once backed U.S. involvement in the Vietnam conflict.

Now, however, he calls it a war against what he believes to be the legitimately-constituted government of North Vietnam: "the first time a country that had won independence faced being re-conquered."

He won't go beyond saying that it's "possible" that the Administration's recent moves toward peace were merely election-eve gimmicks, but contends that "even if we take our men and equipment out of Vietnam, if we pay for Thieu's army it's our army we will still be there."

"Richard Nixon has defined the difference between his plan and George McGovern's as the difference between honor and surrender," he says. But what Nixon defines as honor is really a disguised imperial role. What he calls surrender is a way to end our dishonor."

During his recent travels, he says, he's often had the term "traitor" thrown in his face.

"I told one person that this country was founded by traitors, every one of them people who were loyal to George III in 1770 but traitors by 1775 because they'd found a higher loyalty."

And George III and the Administration, he suggests, share an inclination to call anyone who disagrees with them a traitor.

Dr. Ellsberg, however, who has been delving into the subject, cites historical views that the Founding Fathers were greatly concerned with making sure that "authority is in constant scrutiny" and that "nobody could be punished simply for holding unpopular views."

If he's worried about the fact that the victorious Nixon administration faces "no real resistance from the courts, the congress or the press, who've deferred for so long to the Presidency," there's one accusation about which he can't muster up much worry: of traveling the country mainly to boost sales of his 700-plus page Vietnam analysis, "Papers on the War."

"With a 115-year sentence hanging over my head," he laughs, "I can't get too concerned about the charges of book promotion."

Why is it called 'Kir'? Many of us are aware of the famed French Resistance hero Canon Felix Kir. He was indeed a remarkable priest because he was a head of the French Resistance during World War II, ultimately honored by the populace by being elected Mayor of Dijon and a member of French Parliament. The Vigerons and peasants of Burgundy loved him with such intensity that they changed the name of their beloved beverage 'Vin Blanc Cassis' to 'Kir', honoring him during his lifetime. The name persists and its devotees multiply annually.

Tom and Jerry

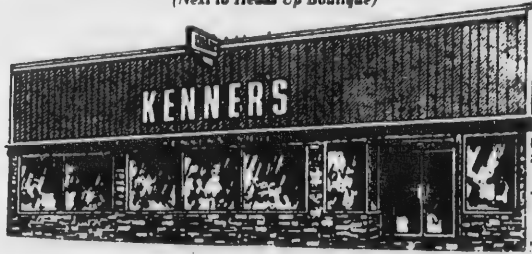

In a bowl combine 6 egg yolks, 1 cup sugar and 1-1/2 tsp. cinnamon, all spice, and ground clove and beat mixture until light. Add gradually 1/4 cup rum, beating well. In another bowl beat 6 egg whites until stiff and fold in yolk mixture. For each drink put 1/2 cup egg mixture and 1/4 cup warmed brandy or bourbon in a warmed Tom & Jerry mug and fill with hot milk or water. Combine mixture well with a wire whisk and dust with nutmeg or float 1 tsp. brandy on top. Makes enough egg mixture for 15 drinks.

Supercold Steel

Although at extremely low temperatures most metals will become very brittle, a special 9 per cent nickel steel has been developed to remain unaffected by temperatures as low as -320°F. Invented in the research laboratories of International Nickel, the steel is used primarily for containers to handle, store and transport supercold liquid

The Teacup And The Jelly Beans

I'm always looking for imaginative ways to teach my children about conservation, and the other day I thought I'd hit upon a great idea. But, as often happens, the best laid plans...

I went to a briefing on the new Massachusetts Wetlands Protection Act. The new law will help towns protect their salt marshes and inland wetlands against filling which would cause damage to the environment.

Matthew B. Connolly, Jr., Director of Conservation Services at the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources, had a good explanation of liquid displacement. "If you put something into a storage area, you use up that storage capacity and gradually get flooding."

"Filling a marsh is like putting jelly beans in your teacup. If you put one jelly bean in a cup of tea, it doesn't make much difference. If you put two jelly beans in, it rises just a little. If you put three jelly beans in, the tea rises to the top of the cup. If you put four jelly beans in your teacup, it floods the saucer."

"Piecemeal filling of a flood plain has the same effect. The water has to go someplace, so it causes flooding on adjacent property or downstream."

I thought this was a great analogy. "That's how I can explain to my boys why people shouldn't fill wetlands!" I said to myself.

The next day I tried it out. I pulled out the bag of jelly beans I'd hidden from the kids after their annual Halloween tummyache. I got out two teacups, filled them with warm water, and waved a teabag over them to produce what Randy, 9, and Scott, 7, call tea.

"Now make believe the tea is low, wet ground... like the Golf Course or Lowlands Playground in our town," I said. "Every jelly bean is a truckload of dirt that someone is bringing to fill in the wetlands."

I started doling out Jelly beans, much to the joy of Randy and Scott.

One, two, three, four... the tea wasn't anywhere near the top.

Seven, eight, nine... "Where did you get all those orange and black jelly beans?" asked Scott, suspiciously.

Eleven, twelve, thirteen... the water level had gone up a little, but it wasn't anywhere near the top. I shuddered to think of the children's digestion. "I should have put more tea in the teacup."

Seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty... My husband looked at me with a mischievous gleam in his eye. "It takes a lot of filling to cause a flood, doesn't it?"

I glared at him. "It just proves what an insidious thing the gradual filling of marshlands can be."

At last the teacups overflowed. The boys took out their sticky jelly beans and counted them.

"Scott got 24 jelly beans, and I only have 23," complained Randy.

"Only 23?" I said. "How can you complain? You'll have two Halloween tummyaches this year. Isn't that what you always wanted?"

I explained again just what had happened. "Now what do you think would happen if they filled in the Lowlands and the Golf Course, and then there was a big storm?"

Randy knew. "There'd be millions of kids waiting in a great long line to get the jelly beans."

West Parish Christmas Fair Set

The annual West Parish Church Christmas fair will be held Saturday, Nov. 18 from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

There will be gifts for young and old, baked goods, handmade items, cheese from Cale's, country store items including antiques, parcel post, toys, books and much more, including Saturday night supper of baked beans, cole slaw and brown bread.

Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., and will include a choice of fish chowder, sandwiches or oven-fried chicken.

Co-chairmen of the fair are Mrs. Charles McCabe and Mrs. Edward Warwick.

Covered Arena Is Planned

Still smarting from the day-long deluge on the closing day of this year's Topsfield Fair, that caused a 20,000 to 25,000 loss in attendance, directors of the sponsoring Essex Agricultural Society are once again considering construction of a covered multi-purpose arena seating 5,000.

President Clifton P. Elliott, with the approval of other officers and the executive board, has appointed a special committee to explore several suggestions for an exposition center with facilities for all types of attractions, trade shows, skating, hockey and other sports. The committee is authorized to bring in firm recommendations to an early meeting of the directors.

Similar proposals over the past 15 years failed to materialize because of financing problems.

Elliott said he was convinced that if patrons had been assured that the various shows and competitions would be presented as scheduled in a comfortable indoor arena on Saturday, Oct. 7, final day of the eight-day Fair and always a "big" day, the crowd throughout the day would have totaled 30,000 instead of the 6,000 that turned out in the downpour.

Officials noted they have an extra incentive to have an expo-center ready by 1974 when the oldest fair in America will receive national attention as it celebrates its 150th anniversary.

Fire Log

The Andover Fire Department answered the following calls between Nov. 7 and Nov. 13.

Nov. 7 - off Mt. Vernon St., auto and brush fire, Maureen Miller.

Nov. 8 - 54 Abbot St., furnace fire, Eleanor Castle.

Nov. 11 - Phillips and Main Sts., false alarm.

Nov. 13 - 26 Shipman Road, overheated dishwasher motor, David Flitner.

The Andover Fire Department ambulance responded to nine calls during the same period.

A Trip Back In Time

If you're old enough, it's easy to go back 50 years.

All I have to do is press the gas pedal for 1600 miles.

I mention this because I recently did it. And got back in time to hear a hairy young economist comment that "what people did 50 years ago may have been a mistake then but certainly is a catastrophe today."

He was wrong, of course. Things have changed. The same authorities who forced my enrollment in the second grade now discourage me even from entering the old school building. It didn't appear attractive anyway. They have paved the schoolyard with asphalt. Even the roads leading to the school are paved.
Fifty years ago we wouldn't have known what to do with all the extra runoff every time it rains.

A trip back in time suggests that we may be overwhelming ourselves by compounding yesterday's mistakes. The process has turned even valuable by-products into nuisances.

For instance, if some college-ruined smart aleck from the Extension Service had suggested that we in effect change diapers daily on a herd of milch cows that spent their lives with their heads caught in yokes, we would have laughed and laughed. We probably would have recognized, without completely understanding the recognition, that his suggestion could destroy our way of life. And we knew that a cow that wasn't housebroken improved the pasture after digesting the grass.

Now one can visit huge dairies and gigantic cattle feeding-lots where the concentrated output of fertilizer has become a major pollution problem.
Efficient farmers consider it cheaper to spread commercial fertilizer.
Until recently much output of dairy and feed lots was bulldozed into a nearby stream, ruining it by over-enrichment.

Cattfishing used to be great down river from the local slaughterhouse.
Even 50 years ago, gigantic slaughterhouses were in business.
They finally reached a dimension where the output of offal would have exceeded the consumptive capacity of cattfish if they had been packed into the stream like cordwood, so tightly that they would have dammed the stream for miles. Instead of raising cattfish, the offal raised the oxygen demand in the river. It suffocated everything. The government has begun clamping down on that practice, too.

Fifty years ago the town's electric plant served only the town and many citizens considered electricity a fad that might collapse. After all, the gasoline lamp gave a brighter light and what else could you do with electricity? The plant pumped just enough heat back into the river to thin the February ice. The River Baptists considered the arrangement beneficial. New converts could be dunked, and while their breath was taken away, they had a better chance of making it to the bank. One could enjoy that born-again feeling with less pneumonia risk.

Now thick cables run from town to town. Somewhere there's a river hotter than the Jordan and far from breath-taking.

What we seem to be doing, in some

To Dedicate New Facility At College

Alumni and business leaders from across Massachusetts will be in attendance when Merrimack College, North Andover, dedicates its new S. Peter Volpe Physical Education Facility and Convocation Center on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 16 at 4 p.m.

The new sports complex and convocation center has been named in recognition of the outstanding leadership of nationally-known Malden contractor S. Peter Volpe.

The single level structure which will house the Merrimack Warrior basketball and hockey teams, will also serve as a recreational facility for students and a convocation center. A schedule of events has been planned for the dedication. Following the invocation by Rev. Paul T. Kamide, O.S.A. College Chaplain, a welcoming speech will be extended by Milton E. Prevost, Chairman, Merrimack College Board of Trustees. Mary Lynch, President, '73, Student Government Association, will deliver a statement from the students. The main address will be given by the Very Reverend John R. Aherne, O.S.A., President, Merrimack College and an acceptance statement will be made by Mr. Volpe. Reverend Thomas C. Kenny, O.S.A., Vice-President from Financial Affairs, will lead the closing prayer.

Guided tours of the new sports complex will be held following the ribbon cutting ceremony.

Mr. Volpe, a leader in civic affairs, is a member of the Merrimack College Board of Trustees. In 1971, he received the degree of Doctor of Engineering Science, honoris causa from the college. At that time, his son, Peter J., received a Bachelor of Science degree from Merrimack. Mr. Volpe is the brother of former Governor and now Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe. He is married to the former Armita Palmerino. The couple has two children.

Retarded Citizens' Open House

The Greater Lawrence Association for Retarded Citizens held open house at their headquarters in the Burke Hospital on Sunday, Nov. 12, from 2 to 5 p.m. Guides were provided by the Youth MARC group, who are dedicated to helping the retarded, and hold many social functions for them. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Alfred Ruggerio, Rose Coppinger, Mary McGovern, Irene Wylie, Gloria Pezone, Ethel Gaudet, Alice Hewitt and Rita Seppa.

The staff consists of Rita Krupa, director; Lois Thomas, associate director; Florence Sammataro and John Shepard, instructors; Eunice Gelineau, Eileen LaRivee, Gloria Pezone and George Dion, instructor aides; Elizabeth Pomerleau, speech therapist. A pre-school class under the Dept. of Mental Health is taught by Patricia Staats, and a public school class of young adults is taught by Judy Savastano. The association also sponsors a Boy Scout Troop, and many social activities.

The Sheltered Workshop has 38 clients at present, who are paid for their productivity. The Workshop is both State and Federally certified.

The Association is now known as the Greater Lawrence Association for Retarded Citizens and is a member unit of the Merrimack Valley United Fund, the Mass. and National Assn. for Retarded Children.

Madison, the state capital of Wisconsin, is built on an isthmus, lying between Lake Monona and Lake Mendota.

Recycling Plant Is Planned

Amesbury area town officials have requested the assistance of Essex County government in the possible construction of a modern re-cycling plant to serve several communities in that area of the county.

A meeting was held recently in Amesbury in which plans for the construction of a $50,000, 10,000 square foot plant of steel construction on Railroad Avenue in Amesbury was discussed.

The plans call for the implementation of the latest shredder-bailer automated equipment. The plant would re-cycle paper, glass and steel. The Amesbury-Newburyport area now is faced with a problem in re-cycling.

The proposed regional plant would be operated by the N. A. Nichols Co. of Amesbury.

In addition to company officials attending the meeting were Daniel J. Cullinane, Executive Director of the Amesbury Industrial Development Commission; John J. Quigley, federal co-ordinator for the Essex County Commissioners and Robert H. Marks, president of the Essex County Economic Development Corp.

Quigley will confer with officials of the federal Environmental Protection Agency and Small Business Administration. Marks will present the proposal to the members of the Board of Directors of his organization at a meeting in Danvers on Nov. 16.

Since the proposed plant would be privately owned it would return tax revenue to the community and would also effect savings for communities in the area now forced to use land fill dumps.

To prevent large cities from becoming larger, many European countries are building new towns. At Vandreuil, near Rouen, France, the first pollution-free industrial city is being built with underground traffic and wastes and pollutants are removed through tunnels, the Massachusetts Audubon Society says.

Petition

Arthur Peatman having rescinded or revoked the building permit granted the petitioners on July 5.

The board heard testimony that Assessor William Russell had adjudged the building not to have been 50 per cent destroyed by the April 18 fire.

The board also heard of the work done through July 21 at which time the building, in the process of reconstruction collapsed.

Atty. DiAdamo explained that the petitioners had gone to considerable expense to restore the building in accordance with the building permit.

A total of $66,000 had been expended or committed up to that time.

Counsel felt that the circumstances after July 18 should not be considered and the petition heard on the basis of the fire damage.

Atty. DiAdamo said it was the intent of the new owners to return the building to its original size and modernize it.

Abutters to the property protested the granting of the permit, based on traffic and other considerations.

Atty. Howard Camuso, counsel for those opposing the permit, questioned the actual condition of the building as legally represented, that is how much of it was totally destroyed by fire and subsequent collapse during reconstruction.

The board took a view of the property and in its decision reported the following findings: a new cement foundation had been poured, the new frame was approximately of the same dimensions as the previous building.

In its decision denying the special permit, the board determined that the building was more than 80 per cent destroyed by the original fire and that it had jurisdiction in such a matter.

As for granting a variance, the board felt that the structure would be the sole commercial activity in a residential neighborhood and the public good would best be served by not continuing the non-conforming use in that area.
